

Customer Networks

Customer networks are used for isolation of customer's virtual servers from other customers' VSs within a VLAN.

To charge for customer networks, you need to attach the required customer network to the network zone first, and then add this zone to the user's billing plan.

After that, user will be able to select this customer network during the VMware VS creation.